AUSPICIOUS IS
START OF SHOWFourth Annual Fall Event Begins
With Parade That Gives Promise of Much.

FREE ATTRACTION TONIGHT

Light Harness Class Will Bring Out
Best Events of Show Tomorrow—
Parade in Afternoon.

The fourth annual fall Rushville horse show was given an auspicious start this morning at 10:30 o'clock when a parade of the live stock which has arrived for the show was made over the streets of the city. It is a larger gathering of animals by far than has ever been presented in the opening pageant and is sufficient that this year's event will surpass all others.

This evening at eight o'clock the Warrick Company of Chicago will give another free attraction on the stage on the west court house lawn as it did this afternoon, for the first time. Aside from the free attraction tonight there will be the pony show on the streets of the business district. There are a large number of entries for ten events in the class and eighty dollars in premium money will be awarded.

The show will be closed tomorrow night by the monster auto pageant, which will move over the streets of the city. All of the machines will be lighted and decorated in the horse show colors and with other frills and it is calculated that this will be one of the most beautiful spectacles during the show. Forty-five dollars in four moneys will be distributed for the best decorated machines. Since there are a very large number of automobiles in the county and circular letters have been mailed to all of the owners urging them to take part in the parade, it is estimated that approximately one hundred machines will be in line. The Warrick Company will give free exhibitions tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and at night at 8 o'clock as advertised by the horse show managers.

Word was received here today that approximately six hundred people will be here Thursday night on a Big Four special train from Greensburg. The special will leave there at seven o'clock and will not arrive here probably before 7:45 o'clock. The local management has agreed to hold the evening program until the special arrives so that the visitors may have advantage of it.

The horse show proper will be closed late in the afternoon, when all of the premiums will have been awarded, with a monster parade of all of the premium winners and many other exhibitors who care to parade their animals. It is asserted by the horse show officials that this will be one of the best parts of the show as it is then that the best of all classes will be shown. Very little of the light harness horses were in the parade this morning because few of the exhibitors had arrived due to the fact that that show will be held tomorrow. Premium winners who do not appear in the parade with their entries will forfeit their awards, according to a rule of the show, which insures a large turnout.

The best part of the show will come tomorrow. Both the general purpose and the light harness class entries will be exhibited then. One hundred and fifty dollars in premiums will be awarded in the general purpose class and over two hundred dollars in the light harness class. It is the last event that the entries in the ladies' driving contest, the gents' driving contest, the tandem teams, the four-in-hands and the saddle events are

WOUNDS WILL BE FATAL

Physicians Hold Out Little Hope For Hunter of New Castle.

The sheriff today began summoning witnesses for the Henry county grand jury investigation of the killing of his wife and wounding of Ralph Hunter by Jesse Freeland at New Castle Friday. Hunter still keeps up a brave front at the hospital but the paralysis caused by the bullet which lodged under the spinal cord is becoming more noticeable. Physicians say he may live a week or three months, but that his injuries will ultimately cause his death. In the meantime, Freeland continues unconcerned and plays his guitar and mandolin at the jail while the other prisoners sing.

HOPE IS HELD OUT
FOR HIS RECOVERYPhysicians Believe Now Harry Morford, Hurt in Shelbyville Accident, May Survive.

TWO TOES ARE AMPUTATED

Harry Morford, the young man so badly hurt when he was run down by a cut of Big Four freight cars in this city Saturday, was placed under an anaesthetic again Tuesday afternoon so that two of the toes of his left foot, which were crushed in the accident, might be amputated, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

The operation was performed at the home of his father-in-law, Eden Reed of West South street, where he has been since the accident. The operation would have been performed sooner, but it was not thought the young man's condition following the amputation of his right leg near the hip, would permit of the second operation. The vitality the victim of the accident and the nerve he has displayed in his suffering are truly remarkable and the physicians are now holding out hope for his recovery, though at first it was supposed he could live but a few hours.

NATE WHEELER IS SERIOUSLY HURTFormer Rushville Man, Now T. H. I.
& E. Motorman, is Injured in Collision in New Castle.

COULD NOT SEE CAR FOR FOG

Nate Wheeler, a motorman of Greensfield, until a few months ago, a motorman on the I. & C., and a resident of this city, was seriously injured about the head and body when a southbound T. H. I. & E. traction car ran into a city car in the southern part of New Castle this morning. In the dense fog it was impossible for the interurban motorman to see the city car, about to take a siding, and it crashed into the rear. Samuel Tapscott, of Greensfield was in charge of the interurban car and escaped with slight cuts and bruises about the head and body, as he left the vestibule when he saw the crash was inevitable. Herman Hobson of New Castle was conductor on the interurban car and John Baber of Indianapolis was conductor on the city car.

The six passengers on the interurban car were not hurt, but both cars were damaged, the city car being almost demolished. As a result of the wreck traffic was stopped for part of the day.

RAINS CAUSE
LOSS AND DELAYOctober Dampness Creates Much Concern Among Farmers Who Have not Sowed Wheat.

TILLERS OF SOIL, BLUE BUNCH

Complain That Rains Damage Corn—
Slight Wind Pulls it up by Roots.

Rush county farmers who have not sowed wheat are a blue bunch. Ordinarily every farmer in the county has his wheat in the ground before this time in October. The month is more than half gone and it is said that there are scores of farmers in every township who are not done sowing wheat. The rains of the last three weeks have kept the ground too wet for wheat sowing most of the time, though a good many farmers who were becoming desperate sowed anyhow, declaring they thought it better to "mud in" the crop than to wait any longer.

There is not a field in the county today in which wheat sowing can go forward. The deluge of Saturday evening flooded the furrows all over the county, and Monday night they were given another soaking. Even if there should be no more rain, the ground would be too wet to work before the end of the week. Farmers are complaining, too, that the excessive rainfall is damaging the corn. The ground is so soft that very little wind blows down the corn. Ears that rest on the earth quickly rot. Furthermore, down corn is much more difficult to gather than standing corn. It is said, too, that the corn, although it has ripened well, is not euring as it should. The farmers say the crop needs two or three weeks of dry sunny weather to put it in proper condition for cribbing.

Many of the farmers are putting in the time while it is so wet to work in the fields gathering apples and making cider. The crop is the largest and finest the county has had in twenty years and the farmers are taking care of it as best they can. The fall varieties they are hauling to market for present use or making them into cider or apple butter. The winter varieties, they are gathering and putting away for use after the snow comes. It is thought there will be home-grown apples in the local market throughout practically the entire winter, for many farmers are "piling up" scores of bushels of good keepers with a view to getting a long price for them along in January and February.

The rains of October have retarded also many other branches of work. Construction work over the county has had to be given up generally on account of the incessant rains. Contractors have found it impossible to work much of the time this month and work on many of the structures about the city has been abandoned much of the time.

Last night the sky suddenly cleared and the opinion was expressed that the first frost of the fall season would fall, but such was not the case. This morning a dense fog hung over the city but no frost was in evidence.

RAIN STOPS FOURTH GAME

The fourth of the world series games which was to have been played between Philadelphia and New York at Philadelphia this afternoon was called off on account of rain. The Athletics were conceded the victory because the Giants had no pitcher, which it was thought could beat Bender.

ASK CITY TO STOP
STREET VENDINGRestaurant Men Object to the Lunch
Stands and Petition Council to Prohibit Them.

SESSION IS A TAME AFFAIR

Will Borrow $5,000 to Pay off Bonds,
Due November 1—Allow Usual Claims.

The session of the city council was rather tame last night and nothing of very great importance was done. The regular meeting was over by nine-thirty o'clock and then the council went in session as a committee of the whole to discuss some important matters.

A petition signed by all the restaurant men of the city was presented to the council. The petition asked that the council stop all street vendors in their line of business from using the streets. Albert Stevens appeared for the petitioners and put the matter before the council. Mr. Stevens said that the restaurant men paid taxes whether anything special was going on in the city or not and the street lunch stands were an unfair competition to them. He stated that the restaurant men were in business and should be considered as merchants. It was stated that every time Rushville has a big day vendors invaded the city, thus hurting their trade.

A general discussion of the subject was indulged in and the ordinance on peddlers' licenses was looked up but nothing definite was decided. It was the general opinion that the traffic ordinance would cover the petition. Councilman Moore moved that the petition be referred to the ordinance committee, but the motion was lost in the discussion. It is understood the petition was discussed in the committee meeting, but no action was taken. Chief Police McAllister received no instructions as to what he should do with the street men and the petition will probably lay over until some future meeting.

The finance committee reported that the record of the city treasurer had been audited and found to be correct. The report was ordered placed on file. Councilman Moore told the council that the ditch in West Third street, near the Case mill was in bad condition and needed repairing. The ditch extends from the railroad to the branch and the street commissioner was instructed to make the necessary repairs.

City Treasurer Cohee asked the council to borrow $5000 to pay off bonds, which will be due November 1. Mr. Cohee stated that there was not enough money from taxes to meet the amount of the bonds. The city will borrow the money providing there is not enough in taxes collected by that time and the mayor and clerk were instructed to issue an order paying the bonds before November 1. To meet the current expenses, $500 was transferred from the general fund to the water and light fund.

Supt. of the water and light plant, A. T. Mahin, asked the council to allow Jesse Higgins, agent for the Pennsylvania railroad, ten dollars demurrage. Mr. Mahin explained that Mr. Higgins had favored the city and not charged the demurrage on several car loads of coal and had been reported by some other railroad and forced to pay it himself. It was really the city's fault in not unloading the cars within the forty-eight hour limit, and Mr. Higgins was allowed the money.

The question of a sewer in East Ninth street, which has been before the council for some time, was referred to the sewer committee with

IS CHOSEN CLASS PRESIDENT

Eugene Miller is Honored by Harvard
Senior Law Members.

Eugene C. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller of 501 North Morgan street, has been honored by being elected president of the Senior law class at Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass. The election means that Mr. Miller will preside as judge in the mock court which is held by the law students. Mr. Miller acted as clerk of the mock court last year. He is taking his last year in law at Harvard and will receive his degree in the spring.

DEAL FOR PALACE
THEATER CLOSEDWas Purchased Today by Harry Clifford and Louis H. Thatcher
From Cary Clifford.

WILL TAKE CHARGE BY NOV. 1

The Palace theater, which has been under the management of the Schmidt Bros. Company of New Castle for the past five months, was sold this morning by Cary Clifford, who formerly ran the theater before it was leased to Schmidt Bros., to Harry Clifford and Louis H. Thatcher. The theater will be renamed and some changes made, including more seats, before it opens under the new management, which will be about November 1.

The new managers plan to have a first class motion picture house and will give a continuous performance, including two reels of pictures and two songs, beginning at 7:15 o'clock. The theater will be under the supervision of Mr. Thatcher, who has been employed at the Palace theater for some time. As in the past, the theater will show licensed pictures of a high standard.

ITALIAN'S BEAR
REAPS HARVESTNative of Sunny Clime Sends $400
"Back Home" From the Local Postoffice.

DIDN'T SEND IT TO HIS WIFE

An Italian and his big grizzly bear reaped a rich harvest among the yokels of America as is evidenced by the fact that one of the sunny clime with the bronze-tinted complexion sent a money order for four hundred dollars of good American money back to his native land from the local postoffice. He came into the city Saturday leading his big brown bear which did the stunts that pleased the children and extracted dimes and nickels from their pockets. The Italian spent Sunday in this city and the first of the week he went to the postoffice to send a little "wad back home." He had a roll of the good greenbacks that would choke a boa constrictor. He presented the roll to the money order clerk, who counted the four hundred, in ones, twos, fives, tens and twenties.

"Want to send this to your wife?" queried the clerk.

"Noi, noi," he cried and became rather excited. "Never send to my wife. She get 'nother man then."

BOYD'S JERSEYS
GIVEN MENTIONMilwaukee Dispatch Says Local Herd
is Winding up Most Successful Season.

OF ANY DAIRY HERD IN THE U. S.

Riverside Stock Farm Jerseys Captures Many Prizes at International Show.

The Hoosier herd of Jersey stock owned by John F. Boyd of Rushville Ind., now being shown at the international dairy show, is winding up one of the most successful show seasons of any herd of dairy stock in the country, says a Milwaukee dispatch to the Indianapolis News this afternoon. The Indiana herd captured at this show the Jersey bull championship, first on a three-year-old cow, first on a yearling heifer, first on a heifer calf, first on aged herd, and first on produce of one cow. This shows a magnificent winning for animals of different ages.

The same herd captured at Memphis, Tenn., one championship, and all firsts offered for dairy stock of this breed. At Nashville, the herd got five first prizes and at Louisville, seven. At Columbus, O., the animals got one championship and four first prizes. The fact that so many desirable prizes were won in so many different localities north and south, puts the dairy interests of Indiana several notches upward.

Next week the Rushville herd will be shown at the national dairy show at Chicago, where some of the finest dairy stock of the world is to be on exhibit. At the Milwaukee pavilion there was an exceptionally fine showing of all the best known breeds. There is something of a fuss on between Chicago and Milwaukee and the Badger breeders were on high mettle determined to marshal the wonderful showing of their State at the show.

It is doubtful whether in the history of the dairy shows in this country a better large lot of cattle in full classes of all breeds has been put inside the walls of one building. There was a great showing of the Jersey breed, in competition with which the Indiana herd was pitted and emerged with such commendable success.

SOLD LARD TO PAY
HER LIVERY HIRERobert Cameron of Orange Township
Made Unusual Charge in Divorce
Suit Against His Wife.

SAYS SHE MADE BAD THREATS

Alleging that his wife sold meat and lard "off the place" to pay for her own livery hire, and that she did many other things that were objectionable to him, Robert Cameron of Orange township brought suit in the circuit court late this afternoon against his wife, Priscilla Cameron, for a divorce. Cameron alleges that she had threatened to kill him and the children and that she had sworn that she would burn down the house. The plaintiff asserts that she bought things to increase the bill and called him many vile names. They were married January 17, 1906, and separated October 17, 1911, according to the complaint.

State Medical History Is Written by Rush County Man

Dr. G. W. H. Kemper, of Muncie, and no one in the state could have done the work more thoroughly, has written a book of four hundred pages, entitled "Medical History of Indiana," with every one of its twenty-two chapters replete with interest, not only to members of the medical profession, but all who are desirous of knowing what Indiana has been doing in medicine from the early territorial days to the present time.

Dr. A. W. Brayton, in an introduction to this history, tells us that Dr. Kemper's medical life has covered a period of fifty years. He was born in Rush county, this state, December 16, 1839; was educated in the common schools, for two years was in a country printing office and in his twenty-first year began the study of medicine with Dr. John W. Moody, of Greensburg. At the first call for troops in the civil war he enlisted and served as a private in the Seventh Indiana regiment of Infantry. On September 25, 1861, he enlisted in the Seventeenth Indiana as hospital steward, and was promoted to the rank of assistant surgeon of the regiment—and this prior to his graduation—a position he filled until the expiration of his three years' enlistment.

He attended lectures at the University of Michigan in the session of 1864-65 and then went to the Long Island college hospital of Brooklyn, N. Y., from which he was graduated in June, 1865. The same year he located in Muncie, which has since been his home. He served five years as coroner of Delaware county, for over thirty years as examining surgeon for pensions, has been president and treasurer of the Indiana State Medical Society, and professor of the history of medicine in the Indiana Medical college and in the medical school of Indiana University.

In this introduction Dr. Brayton calls attention to the tribute paid by Dr. Kemper to the late Dr. John S. Bobbs, who made the first recorded successful operation for gall stones. This operation was performed June 15, 1867, in a second story room on the site of the present Commercial Club in South Meridian street. The patient, Mrs. Z. Brunsworth, is still living at McCordsville, Ind. On June 12, 1869, she was visited at her home by Six Alexander R. Simpson, of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in company with Drs. O. G. Pfaff, A. C. Kimberlin and A. W. Brayton. It is suggested in this introduction that a tablet in commemoration of Dr. Bobbs should be placed by the State Medical Society at the site where this world-noted operation was performed.

Indian doctors possessed a considerable knowledge of the virtues of plants and their applicability to the poisons of reptiles, poisonous arrows and disease incidental to savage life. Many of their efforts consisted only in incantations. The doctor could usually dress and paint himself in the most grotesque and frightful form, then with a great variety of contortions of the body would approach the patient. He would breathe on him, blow in his face, squirt medicine in his mouth and nose, rattle beans or pebbles in a dry gourd over him, at the same time keeping up the most horrid gesticulations and noises to frighten away the disease. He would sometimes after compounding his potion, drink it that he might thus cure his patient. "A custom," Dr. Kemper adds, "which, we think, would be highly repugnant to civilized doctors."

The author quotes from a paper read December 6, 1892, by Dr. W. H. Wishard on medical men in the early days of Indianapolis. He noted that the first physician to locate here was Dr. Samuel G. Mitchell, of Kentucky, who came in April, 1821. Following him in the same year were Dr. Isaac Coe, Dr. Livingston Dunlap, Dr. Scudder, Dr. Jonathan Cool and in 1828 Dr. Charles McDougall, who in 1832 received an appointment of surgeon in the United States army and was medical director of Grant's army at Pittsburg Landing. He died in Virginia in 1884.

Dr. Joel Pennington, of Milton, who settled there in 1825, has left a list of current prices: "About New Year I purchased of an old Friend (Quaker) a hind quarter of beef, which cost in the payment of a doctor bill 2 1/2 cents a pound. Pork was worth from $1.25 to $1.50 a hundred pounds; potatoes, 12 1/2 cents; turnips, the same; sweet potatoes, 25 cents; wheat 37 1/2 cents, and all other products of the soil in proportional prices."

The late Dr. W. T. S. Cornett, of Madison, was the first president of the state society, organized in 1850. He first located in 1824 in Dearborn county, and in 1825 removed to Versailles, Ripley county, where he says he "was for years the only physician and had to travel all over the county on horseback by day and by night, without regard to weather or remuneration for services."

The nearest physicians with whom he was acquainted were Drs. Jabez Perceival and Ferris, of Lawrenceburg; Dr. Torbet, of Wilmington; Drs. Haynes and James, of Rising Sun; Drs. Watts, Howe and Canby, of Madison; Dr. Peabody, of Vernon; Dr. Hartley, of Greensburg; Dr. Oliver, of Brookville, and Dr. Gillespie, on his farm twenty miles south. He notes that in 1843 Dr. Charles Parry, of Indianapolis, read in Philadelphia a paper on the treatment of congestive fever with quinine, following which quinine came into general use in the treatment of a remittent fever.

In the paper read by Dr. Cornett in 1874 he gives a hint in regard to the antiseptic treatment of wounds, long preceding Dr. Lister.

"Half a century ago I have seen lint dipped in whisky used with good results as an application to wounds. The lint should never be allowed to get dry. I have used this dressing more or less throughout the whole of my professional life and have never seen erysipelas occur in a wound where it was used. Its action is threefold, as it stimulates the injured vessels, tends to ease pain and, lastly, prevents the decomposition of purulent matter, which is poisonous."

The author gives interesting chapters of the early medical history of Laporte and Terre Haute; to the Central Medical college, Bobbs free dispensary, the Indianapolis city hospital and various medical societies; also to Rush and adjoining counties.

Prominent among these early physicians were Dr. H. G. Sexton of Rushville, who died in 1865; Dr. J. M. Howland, of Brookville, who died in 1858; also Drs. Frame, Martin M. Sexton, Jefferson Helm, William Braden, E. T. Russell, Clifford and Tompkins.

Dr. Dickinson Burt is given as the first physician to locate in Muncie, Delaware county. He came about 1829, the first of the 436 physicians who came to that county in the first eighty years of its existence. The author says:

"The physician who practices in Delaware county today and ride along its roads and streets in buggies can little appreciate the hardships that these early practitioners endured before our gravel roads were made. Visits made on errands of mercy were often accompanied by peril, as it was no uncommon thing for the horse to mire in creeks and swamps. Concentrated medicine now enables us to carry a large list of remedies in a small space, which is a great improvement over the cumbersome saddlebags required in former days to carry roots and leaves for the precaution of infusions and decoctions."

"About the year 1866 I bought a hypodermic syringe, which I believe was the first one to be used in Delaware county."

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Rushville Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow;

Help the kidneys do their work.

Doan's Kidney Pills build up weak kidneys.

Rushville people endorse our claim.

Mason Maxey, 836 W. Third street, Rushville, Ind., says "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy of great merit and I therefore hold them in high esteem. When I procured my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store, three years ago, I was badly in need of a remedy that would relieve me of the pains in my back. I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable preparation for that purpose and by the time I had finished the contents of two boxes, the pain had disappeared. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and the lapse of three years have not changed my opinion of them. I willingly confirm all I said in my original statement."

ware county."

Reminiscences are given of Hancock county by the late Dr. J. W. Hervey, of Indianapolis (1874), who said in part:

"The great hinderance to the use of quinine was its cost and the scarcity of money. Quinine cost $6 (I think at one time $8) an ounce, and scarce at that. I bought up a number of fat cattle, drove them to Indianapolis, sold them for $7.50 a head and bought quinine."

A Connersville character who came to that place about 1833, is thus pictured:

"Joseph R. Burr came to Connersville and began the practice of medicine. He was a small black-eyed man, wearing plain clothing and speaking the plain language of 'thee and thou.' He had for a sign an large as a man, and cut to resemble large as a man, an dent to resemble one, nailed to the weather boarding of the hotel where he was staying with a chalk sign above, 'Joseph S. Burr, root doctor; no calomel.' He later engaged in the drug business. MEDICAL BOX—Galley TWO. .... His ability consisted of cunning and a knowledge of human nature."

The book gives the names of Indiana physicians in the Mexican and civil wars, the later list being a long and interesting one. Among the illustrations are reproductions of photographs and oil paintings of the following physicians: Ward Cook, Pendleton; Townsend Ryan, Anderson; John S. Bobbs, Indianapolis; William F. Boor, Newcastle; Samuel S. Boyd, Dublin; Madison J. Bray, Evansville; Joseph Eastman, William B. Fletcher, John M. Gaston, Thompson B. Harvey, P. H. Jameson, Indianapolis; James F. Hibbard, Richmond; William Lomax, Marion; George W. Mears, Joseph W. Marsee, Indianapolis; Abraham O. Miller, Lebanon, colonel Seventy-second Indiana regiment; John W. Moody, Greensburg; Bernard J. Mullen, Napoleon, colonel Thirty-fifth Indiana regiment; Samuel E. Mumford, Princeton; William H. Myers; Theophilus Parvin, Indianapolis; Ezra Read, Terre Haute; John L. Richmond, Indianapolis; Isaac M. Rosenthal, Ft. Wayne; Marshall Sexton, Rushville; George Sutton, Aurora; Robert N. Todd, Indianapolis; G. B. Walker, Evansville, and Benjamin S. Woodworth, Ft. Wayne.

The concluding chapter gives reference to a number of noted early surgical cases among which is a case of ovariectomy by Dr. John Sloan, of New Albany, in 1852, where chloroform was administered, this being among the first cases in which this anesthetic was employed.

FORMER HEAD OF THE CARNEGIE TRUST CO.

Faces Court On Charge of Grand Larceny.

New York, Oct. 18.—Before Justice Davis in supreme court Wm. J. Cummins, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., promoter of many companies and chairman of the executive committee of the defunct Carnegie Trust company, is on trial on an indictment charging him with grand larceny in the first degree in connection with note transactions involving $140,000. While this is the only charge to be considered at the present trial, eleven indictments in all have been found against Cummins and the total amount of the thefts charged is $335,000. It is charged that he borrowed the money from the old Van Norden Trust company and the Nineteenth Ward bank in the spring of 1910, ostensibly for the Carnegie Trust company, and converted the money to his own use.

AGRICULTURAL TRAIN

Will Be Operated in Tennessee by the Southern Railway.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—The Southern Railway company, working in co-operation with the state department of agriculture and the University of Tennessee, will operate a special agricultural train over all its lines in this section, the tour lasting until Nov. 10.

The lecturers will attempt to acquaint the farmers with the latest scientific investigations relating to the soil, the plants and the farm animals, and to advise them how to increase crop yields, and at the same time, by a rational system of crop rotation, to leave the soil richer year after year when the crops are removed.

The train will also be operated over the Queen and Crescent route between Chattanooga and Emory Gap, Tenn.

A Medicine That Gives Confidence

Is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. T. J. Adams, 522 No. Kansas Ave., Columbus, Kas., writes:

"For a number of years my children have been subject to coughs and colds. I used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and I found it cured their coughs and colds, so I keep it in the house all the time." Refuse substitutes. F. B. Johnson & Co.

Don't trifle with a cold is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in case of a child. There is nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds in children. It is safe and sure. For sale by All Dealers.

As some of us middle aged people look at the fat and jowled face of the harvest moon, and absorb the gorgeous beauty of a clear September night most of us have to admit that our capacity for sensuous pleasure has been a bit dulled by the years that have flown, says the Shelbyville News.

What a glamor of romance used to surround a moonlight night when we were just grown up enough to feel the witchery of it. How it seemed as if one never could do anything so absolutely prosaic as going home and going to bed. What an affront to the joy of living to turn the cold eye of sleep on Mr. Man in the Moon, before the pale light of dawn should dismiss the mystic visions by the summons of the cold realities of life.

Our shallow human nature thus grinds away on its dull round of toil, throwing the mantle of the commonplace over the sweetest visions of earth and heaven. Something has gone that can't come back. But would we want it back, if we had to travel over the same dusty road again? Aye, there's the rub.

LUMBAGO

"Rheumatic Pains in the Loins and the Small of the Back."

Thus is described one of the most annoying, tho' not necessarily dangerous, forms of Rheumatism, by a great authority. He might have added, and such addition would have increased the value of his definition of Lumbago tenfold, that it can be eradicated from the system by the use of SULFOSOL—sulphur in solution. Whenever you feel those terrible Lumbur pains coming on take SULFOSOL quickly and faithfully. It will not only relieve the pains as promptly as any remedy can do so with safety, but it will eradicate the rheumatic tendency which is a constant menace to the comfort and activities of an otherwise normally well person.

SULFOSOL is the vitalizer of the blood, expeller of uric acid and other blood taints and conqueror of Rheumatism and Gout. ## DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF and ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of the trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it.

A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

Sold and endorsed in Rushville, by the F. E. Wolcott Drug Store.

PRINCE TROUBETSKOY

Russian Artist Victim of Relative's Deadly Bullet.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 18.—A telegram received from Novo Teherkask says that a student of the name of Kristi forced his way into a private railway saloon and fired several revolver shots at Prince Troubetsky, the artist, and husband of the American novelist, Amelle Rives. Kristi later was discovered to be a relative of the prince, who died from his wounds.

MAINE'S DESTRUCTION WAS FROM OUTSIDE

Naval Authorities Have at Last So Decided.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Former Chief Constructor of the Navy Washington L. Capps has submitted a report to Secretary Meyer tending to corroborate the opinion of the court of inquiry that the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor by an external explosion under the vessel's hull. Mr. Capps was sent to Havana by Secretary Meyer to identify certain portions of the wreck which had been exposed by the lowering of the water in the cofferdam surrounding the Maine. While his report will probably be made public, naval officers who have read it say that Mr. Capps confirms the decision of the court of inquiry that the condition of the wreckage leads to the conclusion that the primary explosion was beneath the hull of the Maine.

GETTING READY FOR BIG FIGHT

Bombardment of Hankow Expected at Once.

NON-COMBATANTS ARE LEAVING

Beleagured City Is Rapidly Being Deserted by All Who Can Get Away From Scene of Coming Conflict Between Revolutionaries Who Are Holding the City Against the Gunboats.

Hankow, Oct. 18.—The revolutionists are carefully fortifying their positions here and enrolling enthusiastic volunteers in large numbers. The troops sent from the north to suppress the rising are leaving the government forces on their arrival and joining the rebels.

Non-combatants are departing from Hankow in thousands. Arrangements have been made for the evacuation of the foreign concessions if it be considered necessary for the safety of foreigners.

Admiral Sah Chen Ping has arrived with eight warships. Hostilities are expected to begin immediately. The British and Japanese admirals are defending the foreign concessions and have at their command thirteen foreign warships. The Red Cross neutral camp has been formed with the consent of the consuls, under the presidency of Dr. McWillie, an American missionary.

The government troops at the disposal of Yuan Shih Kai are reported to be disaffected and unreliable.

CAN'T LAST LONG

This Is Pekin's Idea Concerning the Present Rebellion.

Pekin, Oct. 18.—The situation at Wuchang has remained absolutely unchanged for the past six days, and there are no indications that the rebels have allies elsewhere in China.

It is said that the city is profoundly quiet; that the insurgents at the most number 600 drilled men, together with a few thousands of armed auxiliaries. Their success is said to be a pure coup de main, precipitated by the seizure and decapitation of some civilian auxiliaries, among whom were many of the Wuchang soldiery.

In the meantime Admiral Seh arrived at Hankow on Monday with eight warships, comprising cruisers and gunboats. General Yin Chang is encamped at the railway station within striking distance of the rebels.

Two trustworthy divisions of the imperial northern army are being rapidly entrained for the purpose of investing the captured city. Strong detachments from Honan are assisting the authorities. The naval bombardment of the city will probably take place on Saturday, followed by an assault by the troops. It is predicted here that a complete collapse of the rebels is a matter of only a few days.

TWO FEUDISTS KILLED

The Man Who Shot Them Mortally Wounded.

Fayetteville, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Troy and Elias Hatfield, two of the Hatfield family of feudists, living near Fayetteville, were killed and another man, named Geromie, an Italian, was mortally wounded, the result of a quarrel.

The Hatfields are alleged to have begun the fight by charging Geromie with peddling whisky in territory that they thought belonged to them. Geromie denied the allegations of the brothers and fired four shots, wounding both. The Hatfields replied to the fire, and a running fight ensued.

Did Not Need Undertaker.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 18.—Anton Phillip, employed at the rolling mills in this city, was buried beneath ten tons of scrap iron, which toppled over on him, but when Coroner Kesler and an undertaker made a hurried response to a call of the police, it was found the supposed dead man had revived. Phillip was taken to a hospital.

Turkey Stands Pat.

Constantinople, Oct. 18.—Replying to the last note of the powers, Turkey has refused to be more explicit in regard to the details of her proposals for mediation. The porte says the maximum of Turkey's concessions has already been stated.

The Most Progressive Step

In the history of industry, the introduction of our new 5 passenger 4 four door touring car Model 59 at $900 is probably the greatest single manufacturing stride ever made in this or any other industry. It is an industrial leap due to the remarkable economical progress of a giant institution. To start with, this car is a real automobile, not a little frail, cramped machine but a good, big roomy car that is ample for 5 passengers and as a matter of fact it has more power than you will probably ever care to use.

The motor is the famous

Overland

Type 4x4½ and will develop a greater power than any other of a small bore and stroke. It has the fashionable four door with door handles inside and with Center Control and what is more it is built right having the strength of cars that cost 3 times the price, beautifully finished, upholstered of good leather, stuffed ed, of good leather, stuffed with hair, trimmings of finest material.

The greatest possible value that has ever been placed on the market. People are apt to wonder why other manufacturers can't equal this value. It is for just this reason all manufacturing progresses is due to better and larger manufacturing facilities.

The larger the factory's output becomes the more economical the business and price.

Pins, locomotives, toothpicks, or Automobiles can all be made at less cost when manufactured in the great quantities.

The output of this factory is 20,000 cars a year and the man who buys an Overland car reaps the profit.

Write for catalogue 3-27 describing these cars which gives 9 body styles including runabouts, roadsters and touring cars.

H. P. runs from 25 to 45. Prices range from $900 to $2000.

The women are getting so set up over the California vote that pretty soon they'll be demanding the right to leave the house with permission.

Even if the McNamaras are found not guilty, the Los Angeles dynamite explosion will be avenged by having the jurors locked up for several months.

If they can't get jurors without preconceived opinions for the McNamara trial, they will be able to fill up the panel by sending up to the school for the Feeble Minded.

Canada has a pleasing toy in the shape of a new governor-general, and he says he will be popular if he does not try to govern anything more serious than the gold lace worn by his staff.

Mr. Taft turned the first spadeful of earth for the Panama-Pacific exposition, and then promptly dropped the spade. How does he expect the job will ever be done if all the workmen get tired so quick?

The city council refused to raise the tax levy recently even though expenses have been heavier than usual. The story of the council proceedings shows that they had to make their first draw last night. They borrowed five thousand dollars to pay off an outstanding bond.

It is said that business men are so flabbergasted by the anti-trust law that they don't dare do anything, but if they only keep on buying and selling without trying to shut up the little fellow, no one can touch 'em.

Gov. Johnson of California would not mention Mr. Taft by name when he introduced him. We can't find an instance in United States history where a man secured a clerkship for his declining years by such a policy.

Uncle Joe Cannon sized up the fault-finding disposition of the Democratic party here as follows: "If the Almighty in His infinite wisdom, made a tariff bill every day in the year the Democrats would cuss and damn it."

The Indianapolis News quotes Mayor Shank of confessing that he is a Republican because he makes money out of it. It is possible that the mayor has no higher promptings for his convictions than the average so-called independent newspaper, which is edited from the box office, says the Marion Chronicle.

The Richmond Item says James E. Watson shall not have the Sixth district nomination for Congress, which ought to settle it, since Mr. Watson has lost no opportunity to say that he would not have it under any circumstances, says the Huntington Herald. It begins to look, however, as if "there ain't no such animal" as would suit the Richmond papers for any office.

It's difficult to understand why so many cries of rage and anger should come from the Richmond newspaper offices because James E. Watson is alleged to have said in a speech at the Nip and Tuck club banquet at New Castle that there are more political frauds, hypocrites and scoundrels in Wayne county than in any other county in the State. The worthy editors must have tried the shoe on and found that it fit. Apparently they think he was looking out of the corner of his eye at them when he spoke.

When the minutes of a previous meeting were read at council meeting last night it was discovered that the council had changed its course recently in regard to the improvement of the sidewalks in Buena Vista avenue. It has always been customary to pass a preliminary resolution, when sidewalk improvement is asked, and give notice of the improvement so that remonstrators may appear, if there are any. The council started in to make the improvement without the preliminary resolution, but evidently relented when the members were reminded of the unusual course which they were taking.

The city council refused to put additional men on the police force for the horse show. The city fathers expect two men to work day and night handling the crowd that will be in the city. Two policemen can not possibly give the service that is expected of them on a big day like today and tomorrow. Surely the council did not turn down the extra police proposition from a financial standpoint, for they have spent money for many less worthy causes. It stands to reason that a two-man police force is not so efficient when its duties are almost doubled. If the council thinks the two men are not earning their money, let the "city dads" trade places with them for twenty-four hours.

The South Bend Tribune publishes the result of a poll of Indiana Republican editors with reference to preference for governor. Of the two hundred and fifty Republican and independent editors in the state seventy-three have made reply to the inquiries of the Tribune. In the order of preference the following men are voted for in the Tribune poll: Hugh Th. Miller, Wm. L. Taylor, Chas. A. Bookwalter and James P. Goodrich—others receiving scattered votes. It is probably true that many of the editors not voting felt that this is hardly time to be choosing a candidate for governor—a theory that is made more plausible by the fact that the Tribune has been two months in making the poll. A matter of much more immediate concern is the formulation of a platform.—Marion Chronicle.

That's only too true!

The publishing company of the Star league which now controls the three newspaper properties has doubtless concluded to gauge the political policy from the counting room, and the announcement is made that the independent principle will be adhered to with a slight leaning toward Republicanism.—Columbus Republican.

This is the greatest tribute that has been paid the progressive cause in Indiana. When the new order of things so takes hold of men and institutions that the counting room of a newspaper feels it and responds to it the sentiment is widespread and irresistible. This is true because the counting room of a newspaper comes in contact with all that class of citizens, which, as a rule, opposes any change in affairs or any agitation. Whenever business interests force a newspaper into the progressive column, the fight is about won.—Indianapolis Sun.

Are we led to infer then that the Sun gauges its editorial policy from the counting room? Is that the reason it is so silent on some topics in which "Big Business," so much harped upon, is highly interested?

Anyway the horses haven't raised a "kick" about the automobile parade infringing on their rights.

Market reports say that the price of lemons has gone up fifty per cent. We always found 'em pretty cheap at that.

Accept the opinion from us, eon, a girl never does think that her hair looks just right behind.

There will be another Friday, the thirteenth, in September, 1912, and we hope to have a good quip thought up by that time.

Hundreds of thousands of people—including the bulletin board crowds of course—are watching the world series games each day, and yet, if you want to get a dozen or so to hear a lecture on corn growing you will have to get a pretty girl to sell tickets.

Most of us haven't such a gigantic opinion of the New York Giants today. That is, taking another slant at it.

Many a girl who is pigeon-toed can hypnotize a man into calling her "dovie." That's hearsay with us, however.

Chief McAllister received a post card from Connersville with a picture of the night force. He says the Rushville force will have a picture taken as soon as he can get them together. You see it's very hard to get the night men up during the daytime.

AUSPICIOUS IS START OF SHOW

brought out. Besides a number of interesting specials will be on the program tomorrow.

The Warrick Company of Chicago, consisting of two exceptionally good acrobats, entertained the crowd for about fifteen minutes this afternoon. The two gave comic acrobatic stunts of the slap-stick variety which did not fail to please the crowd. They will give a complete change of program tonight at eight.

It was estimated this afternoon when the crowd gathered for the free act on the court house lawn that the attendance was equal to that of "Sherman day." The crowd was estimated that day at three thousand people. That is a banner crowd for the Rushville horse show. It is predicted that the crowd will be even larger tomorrow.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the fourteenth event of the program had been finished. That was the last premium in the heavy draft horse class. There was a spirited contest for the best farm team prize among five entries. It required several minutes for the judge to place the ribbons. There were a large number of entries in all the classes.

It was expected that there would be about sixty more events run off tonight and tomorrow when all of the showing had been completed this afternoon. There is every reason to believe that the program can be finished up tomorrow afternoon in time to hold an early parade of premium winners.

The day dawned bright and clear this morning which insured the success of the show. Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the opening parade moved from South Morgan street with the greatest gathering of horses which was ever assembled here. The parade, which was six blocks long, moved east in Second street to Main, south in Main to First, street, east in First street to Perkins street, north in Perkins to Seventh, west in Seventh to Main, south in Main to Second, east in Second to Perkins, south in Perkins to First, west in First to Main, where it disbanded.

The carriages and the band moved north to the corner of Second and Main street, where Mayor B. A. Black made a brief speech, welcoming the people to the city and turning over the streets to the horse show for the annual event. He spoke from the cabin in which he rode. Following that the show of heavy draft horses was started immediately in Main street, between Second and Third streets.

The parade was led by L. B. Harris, marshal of the day, and Alva Eakins, assistant marshal. They rode horses and were followed by a cab bearing Mayor Black, Homer Powell, president of the organization, John S. Davis, vice-president, P. A. Miller, treasurer, and J. E. Ryburn, secretary. Three other carriages beautifully decorated in green and white and bearing promoters of the show and several women.

A notable feature of this year's parade was the large number of horseback riders, both men and women. Some beautiful side-wheelers were introduced to the crowds. There were one hundred and twenty-five animals in the parade which does not include near all of the horses which will be shown as most of the entries for the classes tomorrow had not arrived yet this morning.

The city is beautifully decorated for the show. Light green and white, the official horse show colors, abound everywhere. All of the cluster light posts were covered artistically with green and white and present a beautiful sight from a distance.

There are a number of very tasty windows which have been arranged with a view to taking the prizes offered by the horse show organization.

The crowd began to gather early this morning and this afternoon it was estimated that the largest crowd which ever attended such an event here before was present. The interest in the events as they were called out was great.

TOMATO CROP GATHERED

Strenuous Work of Picking And Delivering is About Finished.

The tomato crop of 1911 is nearly all in. There will probably be a few more loads delivered to the canning companies by the growers, but the strenuous work of the past few weeks are past. There were several Rush county farmers who raised tomatoes for the canning companies this season, and they are well pleased with the result, financially, of their efforts along this line. The crop has been good, notwithstanding the fact that they were planted late. Some of the farmers have realized from fifty to eighty dollars an acre which pays for all extra work the crop requires. The probabilities are that there will be a much larger acreage planted next year, since it has been thoroughly demonstrated that they can be raised profitably here.

BRICK CHURCH QUARTET.

Frank Croxton, brother-in-law of L. A. Frazee of Connersville, and a native of Morristown, who has gained considerable fame in New York City in the last few years as a soloist, heads what is known as the Brick Church quartet which will give an entertainment at the Auditorium in Connersville Friday night. The quartet appeared in Tomlinson hall in Indianapolis Monday night and made a decided hit.

TIME TO SELECT SEED CORN

Indiana Growers Association Sends Out Bulletins of Advice.

Bulletins have been received by several persons in this county from the Indiana Corn Growers Association announcing that it is high time to be selecting the seed corn for next year. The promoters of the plan hope that Indiana farmers will save 800,000 bushels of corn for planting in the spring of 1912. The principal bit of advice is that the seed corn should be gathered at once in order to avoid the possibility of frost. The farmers are told to pick out for seed only large well matured and perfectly developed ears, and if possible to get them with even rows, for in this way the quality of Hoosier corn will improve and the five million of acres of corn land in the state will be one of the prides of the nation. Says the bulletin: A little attention to seed corn at this place will mean millions of dollars to corn growers next year.

CAN'T TAKE HIS OWN TEST

Honan Writes Another Opinion For Superintendent Greathouse.

In reply to Charles A. Greathouse, State superintendent of public instruction, Attorney General Honan held that while there is no statute against a county superintendent taking a teacher's examination, given by himself, there would be no legal basis for doing so and the whole proceeding would be against public policy. A county superintendent wished to become an applicant for a teacher's license in his own county and asked the State superintendent if he might take an examination conducted by himself.

We haven't forgotten about all you girls and boys who came to see us in Rushville last week. We had a jolly good time, and do hope we can go back to your town some day. Won't we have a great time, though?

We're just wondering how many of you know the little verse about "Tess and Ted." Here it is: let's say it together again.

When "Tess and Ted" were little tots,
They wore their shoes all out in spots,
Until their mother finally said,
"I'll buy some shoes for 'Tess and Ted,'
Some good strong shoes, the kind that wear;"
So she went and bought two pair
They were "Tess-Ted."

SOCIETY NEWS

The regular meeting of the D. A. R., which was to have been tomorrow afternoon has been postponed one week. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

* * *

Miss Leona Ruddell, living southwest of the city had as her guests Sunday, the Misses Merial and Merial Phillips, Minnie and Emma Redden, Edith and Hazel Gibson and Mary Durrell, and the Messrs. Urms-ton Carr, Fred Stewart, Otis Houch-ins and Esta Webb.

* * *

Indianapolis Star: Mrs. Samuel S. Morgan, who was the house guest of Mrs. Adolphus Wilson Tompkins, has returned to her home in Rushville. Miss Hazel Bennett, who was also the guest of Mrs. Tompkins, returned to her home in Rushville yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Tompkins, who will remain ten days to attend the horse show.

* * *

Mrs. L. M. Clark of North Main street and her two daughters, Miss Marie Clark of this city and Mrs. N. G. Wills of Connersville, entertained at the Clark home yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Cecil Clark of Richmond. Most of the afternoon was devoted to a musical which was in charge of J. Walter Wilson, the Misses Florence Frazee and Marie Clark assisting. At five o'clock a two-course luncheon was served.

The Hallowe'en idea was carried out all through the afternoon. The decorations were similar to those used at Hallowe'en luncheons and entertainments. Yellow chrysanthemums and dahlias were used promiscuously in arranging the interior of the home artistically. Pumpkin faces smiled from many corners and secluded places and the general effect was highly pleasing.

Mrs. Harry Blieden and Mrs. R. H. Elliott of Connersville were guests from out of the city.

BELIEVES ANIMALS TRANSMIT POLIO

Dr. W. F. King, After Study of Infantile Paralysis Cases, Reaches That Conclusion.

LOCAL ONE SUPPORTS THEORY

W. F. Kin, assistant secretary of the state board of health, has resumed his study of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, and has reported eighty-one cases to the board since July 1. He has discovered that the cases have, almost without exception followed some disease in animals about the farm or house, which resulted in their being paralyzed. Because of the difficulty in studying the cases the authorities are not yet prepared to say positively that the disease is transmitted from animals suspected of infecting children with the disease have been sent to the Flexner institute, in New York, but no reports on the institute findings have been received.

One case recently reported from this county disclosed that a child was taken from school one day and died two days later of the disease. Two weeks preceding her death six cats which played about the house had died of some disease which paralyzed them and one hog died under similar conditions. In a case reported from Kosciusko county, chickens on the premises had been similarly affected. In all the cases, however, except two or three, the carcasses of the animals had been buried or otherwise disposed of before the children were taken ill.

GARAGE HAS NO. K-13-13.

The Norris Motor Company of this city received the automobile number K-13-13 which was issued Friday, the thirteenth. The number was for a Thomas car and when the application was made for a number it was not thought it would be issued on Friday, the thirteenth. J. Don Norris, proprietor of the garage, is not the least bit superstitious and believes all the hoodoo numbers will bring good luck.

(Copyright, 1910, by The Bobbs-Merrill Co.) As he snatched up the inanimate objects from the leaf-strewn ground where he had thrown them in despair, he thought how things can change in a pale face on which there marks of a quarter of an hour.

Jubilant to have overcome the fate which had tried to keep him hidden from him in Paris, he could hardly believe his eyes that she was before them again, and, as the motor rolled into the Avenue des Acacias, he asked her the question uppermost in his mind:

"Are you alone in Paris, Letty?" "Don't you count?" "No—no—honestly, you know what I mean."

"You haven't any right to ask me that."

"I have—I have. You gave me a right. You're engaged to me, aren't you? Gosh, you haven't forgotten, have you?"

"Don't make me conspicuous in the Bois, Dan," she said; "I only let you come with me because you were so terribly desperate, so ridiculous."

"Are you alone?" he persisted. "I have got to know."

"Higgins is with me."

"Oh, God," he cried wildly, "how can you joke with me? Don't you understand you're breaking my heart?"

But she did not dare to be kind to him, knowing it would unnerve her for the part she had promised to play.

He sat gripping his hands tightly together, his lips white. "When I leave you now," he said brokenly, "I am going to find that devil of a Hungarian and do him up. Then I am going to tackle Ruggles."

"Why, what's poor Mr. Ruggles got to do with it?"

Dan cried scornfully: "For God's sake, don't keep this up! You know the rot he told you? I made him confess."

Dan cried scornfully: "For God's sake, don't keep this up! You know the rot he told you? I made him confess."

ress. He has had this mania all along about money being a handicap; he was bent on trying this game with some girl to see how it worked." He continued more passionately. "I don't care a rap what you marry me for, Letty, or what you have done or been. I think you're perfect and I'll make you the happiest woman in the world."

She said: "Hush, hush. Listen, dear; listen, little boy. I am awfully sorry, but it won't do. I never thought it would. You'll get over it all right, though you don't, you can't believe me now. I can't be poor, you know; I really couldn't be poor."

He interrupted roughly: "Who says you'll be? What are you talking about? Why, I'll cover you with jewels, sweetheart, if I have to rip the earth open to get them out."

She understood that Dan believed Ruggles' story to have been a cock-and-bull one.

"You talk as though you could buy me, Dan. Wait, listen." She put him back from her. "Now, if you won't be quiet, I'm going to stop my car."

He repeated: "Tell me, are you alone in Paris? Tell me. For three days I have wandered and searched for you everywhere; I have hardly eaten a thing, I don't believe I have slept a wink." And he told her of his weary search.

She listened to him, part of the time her white-gloved hand giving itself up to the boy; part of the time both hands folded together and away from him, her arms crossed on her breast, her small shoes of coral kid tapping the floor of the car. Thus they rolled leisurely along the road by the Bois.

"Are you alone in Paris, Letty?" And she said: "Oh, what a bore you are! You're the most obstinate creature. Well, I am alone, but that has nothing to do with you."

A glorious light broke over his face; his relief was tremendous. "Oh, thank God!" he breathed.

"Pontotowsky"—and she said his name with difficulty—"is coming tonight from Carlsbad."

The boy threw back his bright head and laughed wildly.

"Curse him! The very name makes me want to commit a crime. He will go over my body to you. You hear me, Letty. I mean what I say."

People had already remarked them as they passed. The actress was too well known to pass unobserved, but she was indifferent to their curiosity or to the existence of anyone but this excited boy.

Blair, who had not opened a paper since he came to Paris, did not know that Letty Lane's flight from London had created a scandal in the theatrical world, that her manager was suing her, and that to be seen with her driving in the Bois was a conspicuous thing indeed. She thought of it, however.

"I am going to tell the man to drive you to the gate on the other side of the park where it's quieter, we won't be stared at, and I want you to leave me and let me go to the Meurice alone. You must, Dan, you must let me go to the hotel alone."

He laughed again in the same strained fashion and forced her hand to remain in his.

"Look here. You don't suppose I am going to let you go like this, now that I have seen you again. You don't suppose I am going to give you up to that infamous scoundrel? You have got to marry me."

Bringing all her strength of character to bear, she exclaimed: "I expect you think you are the only person who has asked me to marry him, Dan. I am going to marry Prince Pontotowsky. He is perfectly crazy about me."

Until that moment she had not made him think that she was indifferent to him, and the idea that such a thing was possible, was too much for his overstrained heart to bear. Dan cried her name in a voice whose appeal was like a hurt creature's, and as the hurt creature in its suffering sometimes springs upon its torturer, he flung his arms around her as she sat in the motor, held her and kissed her, then set her free, and as the motor flew along, tore open the door to spring out or to throw himself out, but clinging to him she prevented his mad act. She stopped the car along the edge of the quiet, wooded allee. Blair saw that he had terrified her. She covered her beating heart with her hands and gasped at him that he was "crazy, crazy," and perhaps a little late his dignity and self-possession returned.

"I am mad," he acknowledged more calmly, "and I am sorry that I frightened you. But you drive me mad."

Without further word he got out and left her agitated, leaning toward him, and Blair, less pale and thoroughly the man, lifted his hat to her and, with unusual grace, bowed good-night and good-by. Then, rushing as he had come, he walked off down through the allee, his gray figure in his gray clothes disappearing through the vista of meeting trees.

For a moment she stared after him, her eyes fastened on the tall, slender, beautiful young man. Blair's fire and ardor, his fresh youthfulness, his protection and his chivalry, his ardent devotion, touched her profoundly. Tears fell, and one splashed on her white glove. Was he really going to ruin his life? The old ballad, "The Earl of Moray," ran through her head:

"And long may his lady look from the castle wall."

Dan had neither title nor, according to Ruggles, had he any money, and she could marry the prince; but Dan, as he walked so fast away, misery snapping at his heels as he went, stamping through the woods, seemed glorious to Letty Lane and the only one she wanted in the world. What if anything should happen to him really? What if he should really start out to

When she saw him within reaching distance she sent the chauffeur across the woods to give Mr. Blair her scribbled word and consoled herself with the belief that Dan wouldn't "go to the dogs or throw himself in the river until he had seen her again."

CHAPTER XXVII.

At Maxim's.

At the Meurice, Miss Lane gave strict orders to admit only Mr. Blair to her apartments. She described him. No sooner had she drunk her cup of tea, which Higgins gave her, than she began to expect Dan.

He didn't come.

Her dinner, without much appetite, she ate alone in her salon; saw a doc-

cial messenger from London after her, telegrams and cards lay there in a pile. Looking down at the lot, she murmured: "All right, I don't care."

He concealed his triumph, but before the look had faded from his face she saw it and exclaimed sharply:

"Don't be crazy about it, you know. You'll have to pay high for me; you know what I mean."

He answered gallantly: "My dear child, I've told you that you would be the most charming princess in Hungary."

Once more she accepted indifferently: "All right, all right, I don't care tuppence—not tuppence"—and she snapped her fingers; "but I like to see you pay, Frederigo. Take me to Maxim's."

He demurred, saying she was far too ill, but she turned from him to call Higgins, determined to go if she had to go alone, and said to him violently:

"Don't think I'll make your life easy for you, Frederigo. I'll make it wretched; as wretched—" and she held out her fragile arms, and the sleeves fell back, leaving them bare—"as wretched as I am myself."

But she was lovely, and he said harshly: "Get yourself dressed. I'll go change and meet you at the lift."

She made him take a table in the corner, where she sat in the shadow on the sofa, overlooking the brilliant room. Maxim's was no new scene to either of them, no novelty. Pontotowsky scarcely glanced at the crowd, preferring to feast his eyes on his companion, whose indifference to him made his abstraction easy. She was his property. He would give her his title; she had demanded it from the first. The Hungarian was a little overdressed, with his jeweled buttons, his large boutonniere, his faultless clothes, his single eye-glass through which he stared at Letty Lane, whose delicate beauty was in fine play; her cheeks faintly pink, her starry eyes humid with a dew whose luster is of the most precious quality. Her unshed tears had nothing to do with Pontotowsky—they were for the boy. Her heart sickened, thinking where he might be; and more than that, it cried out for him. She wanted him.

Oh, she would have been far better for Dan than anything he could find in this mad city, than anything to which in his despair he could go for consolation. She had kept her word, however, to that old man, Mr. Ruggles; she had got out of the business with a fatal result, as far as the boy was concerned. She thought Dan would drift here probably as most Americans on their wild nights do for a part of the time, and she had come to see.

She had kept her word, however, to that old man, Mr. Ruggles; she had got out of the business with a fatal result, as far as the boy was concerned. She thought Dan would drift here probably as most Americans on their wild nights do for a part of the time, and she had come to see.

tor and made him prescribe something for the cough that racked her chest; looked out to the warm, bright gardens of the Tuilleries fading into the pallid loveliness of sunset, indifferent to everything in the world—except Dan Blair. She believed she would soon be indifferent to him, too; then everything would be done with. Now she wondered had he really gone—had he done what he threatened? Why didn't he come? At twelve o'clock that night, as she lay among the cushions of her sofa, dozing, the door of her parlor was pushed in. She sprang up with a cry of delight; but when Pontotowsky came up to her she exclaimed: "Oh, you!" And the languor and boredom with which she said his name made the prince laugh shortly.

"Yes, I. Who did you think it was?" Cynically and rather cruelly he looked down at Letty Lane and admired the picture she made; small, exquisite, her blond head against the dark velvet of the lounge, her gray eyes intensified by the fatigue under them.

"Just got in from Carlsbad; came directly here. How-do-do? You look, you know—" he scrutinized her through his single eye-glass—"most frightfully seedy."

"Oh, I'm all right." She left the sofa, for she wanted to prevent his nearer approach. "Have you had any supper? I'll call Higgins."

"No, no, sit down, please, will you? I want to know why you sent to Carlsbad for me? Have you come to your senses?"

He was as mad about the beautiful creature as a man of his temperament could be. Exhausted by excess and bored with life, she charmed and amused him, and in order to have her with him always, to be master of her caprices, he was willing to make any sacrifice.

"Have you sent off that imbecile boy?" And at her look he stopped and shrugged. "You need a rest, my child," he murmured practically, "you're neurasthenic and very ill. I've wired to have the yacht at Cherbourg—it'll reach there by noon tomorrow."

She was standing listlessly by the table. A mass of letters sent by special messenger from London after her, telegrams and cards lay there in a pile. Looking down at the lot, she murmured: "All right, I don't care."

He concealed his triumph, but before the look had faded from his face she saw it and exclaimed sharply:

"Don't be crazy about it, you know. You'll have to pay high for me; you know what I mean."

He answered gallantly: "My dear child, I've told you that you would be the most charming princess in Hungary."

Once more she accepted indifferently: "All right, all right, I don't care tuppence—not tuppence"—and she snapped her fingers; "but I like to see you pay, Frederigo. Take me to Maxim's."

He demurred, saying she was far too ill, but she turned from him to call Higgins, determined to go if she had to go alone, and said to him violently:

"Don't think I'll make your life easy for you, Frederigo. I'll make it wretched; as wretched—" and she held out her fragile arms, and the sleeves fell back, leaving them bare—"as wretched as I am myself."

But she was lovely, and he said harshly: "Get yourself dressed. I'll go change and meet you at the lift."

She made him take a table in the corner, where she sat in the shadow on the sofa, overlooking the brilliant room. Maxim's was no new scene to either of them, no novelty. Pontotowsky scarcely glanced at the crowd, preferring to feast his eyes on his companion, whose indifference to him made his abstraction easy. She was his property. He would give her his title; she had demanded it from the first. The Hungarian was a little overdressed, with his jeweled buttons, his large boutonniere, his faultless clothes, his single eye-glass through which he stared at Letty Lane, whose delicate beauty was in fine play; her cheeks faintly pink, her starry eyes humid with a dew whose luster is of the most precious quality. Her unshed tears had nothing to do with Pontotowsky—they were for the boy. Her heart sickened, thinking where he might be; and more than that, it cried out for him. She wanted him.

Oh, she would have been far better for Dan than anything he could find in this mad city, than anything to which in his despair he could go for consolation. She had kept her word, however, to that old man, Mr. Ruggles; she had got out of the business with a fatal result, as far as the boy was concerned. She thought Dan would drift here probably as most Americans on their wild nights do for a part of the time, and she had come to see.

Suggestive Questions

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Class.

(Copyright 1910 by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

Oct., 22nd, 1911.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) The Foundation of the Second Temple Laid. Ezra iii:iv:5.

Golden Text—Enter into his gate, with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise. Ps. c:4.

(1.) Verse 1—How long had they likely been in the land when this general gathering at Jerusalem took place?

(2.) Which should have the right of way, or first place, our own business or that of the church?

(3.) When the people as "one man" give up their business to attend to religious gatherings, what is the effect upon their general prosperity?

(4.) Verse 2—Why is there a special obligation upon intellectually and financially strong men, to take a leading part in church work?

(5.) Verses 3-6—What was the spiritual effect in those days, of the observance of the ceremonial law of Moses?

(6.) Would God have planned for so much ceremony and ritual for an educated and spiritually enlightened people? (See Isa. i:11-16.)

(7.) When and why was the Mosaic ceremonial law abolished?

(8.) What is the sacrifice which every Christian is under obligation to offer up daily?

(9.) Verse 7—Should money given to build churches be regarded as an investment, and may we expect any financial returns?

(10.) Verses 8-9—What practical lessons may we learn from the way these men organized, and from the vigor of the leaders in seeing the organization was effective?

(11.) Verses 10-11—What is the practical effect of a proper ceremony for special church services, such as the laying of a foundation stone, or the opening of a church?

(12.) Would it be a good thing for the church to re-establish band music in its services? Why or why not?

(13.) Point out its appropriateness and say what psalm they sang together.

(14.) Should there be room and opportunity for spontaneous shout-of praise as in this case, in the most carefully prepared church ceremony?

(15.) In political and other meetings, the people are encouraged to show their appreciation and express their feelings; why should it not be the same in religious gatherings?

(16.) Verses 12-13—Why did some of these people shout for joy and some for sorrow?

(17.) About how many years was it since the former Temple was burned?

(18.) Were those that sorrowed and those that rejoiced both right? Give your reasons.

(19.) Chap. iv Verses 1-5—Why did these enemies of the Jews offer their services to help build the Temple?

(20.) Should help ever be received for the church from those who are not religious?

(21.) What motive did these people have in trying to frustrate the building of the Temple? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(22.) What is our duty when we are opposed in our Christian work?

Lesson for Sunday, Oct. 29th, 1911.

A Psalm of Deliverance. Psalm lxxxv.

MEN ASKED TO JOIN MOVEMENT

Proposed Auxiliary to the Indiana
W. C. T. U.

TO BE MADE UP OF MERE MEN

Suggestion Made by Local Politicians to the State Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Session at Marion May Lead to the Organization of a Men's Equal Suffrage League.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 18.—Effort is to be made to form an auxiliary to the W. C. T. U. by the organization of a men's equal suffrage league. Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley of Liberty presented the matter to the state convention in session here and the executive board will endeavor to have such an organization formed. The suggestion resulted from the appearance before the convention of local politicians who expressed themselves as favorable to women voting, and the convention has taken them at their word.

SENT TO PRISON

Efforts to Escape Sentence For Green-leaf Are Failures.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 18.—For shooting Ralph Conover, sr., through a window of the Conover house, when Conover was alleged to be attempting to cut his son, Ralph Conover, jr., with a gun, Judge C. M. Fortune of the circuit court sentenced George Greenleaf to prison from two to twenty years for manslaughter. The younger Conover and his mother were indicted as accessories, but the indictments were dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney. A strenuous effort was made to have the court release Greenleaf on good behavior. The shooting took place about two years ago, when Greenleaf was nineteen years old. He has since been married.

THEY GOT AWAY

Stylishly Dressed Auto Party Raids Farmer's Poultry Yard.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 18.—Four stylishly dressed women in a high-powered touring car, bearing an Illinois license number, stopped at the country home of Dr. C. W. Caldwell, between Hammond and Gary, for a drink of water. After complimenting the family on their beautiful home, they left. Ten ducks, several geese, a dozen chickens and a quantity of fruit disappeared and the women crossed the state line before the police could stop them.

Lawyer Shot Collector.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 18.—Word has reached this city of the killing of Sumner Baldwin, a Marion young man, who was agent of a collecting agency, with temporary headquarters at Montgomery, Ala. He was shot and instantly killed in a hotel at Uvella, Ga., by a lawyer from whom he was attempting to collect a bill. Baldwin's widow and three children are at Montgomery, Ala.

He Is Wanted at Gary.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Governor Marshall has issued a requisition on the governor of Oregon for the return to Gary of Thomas J. Brooken, who is wanted for alleged embezzlement of $273.60. Brooken, according to the copy of the affidavit accompanying the request for requisition, was time keeper in the plant of the Illinois Steel company, and padded payrolls.

Alleged Whitecappers in Court.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—Nov. 15 was fixed as the date for the trial of eight men who entered pleas of not guilty of whitecapping Harvey McFarland. The men who appeared in court are Tobe Snoddy, William Snoddy, Silas M. Adams, Newton Adams, Joseph Shields, Jack Grubb, George Hatton, Arthur Hatton.

Operated Swindling Scheme.

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Tila Christman, who operated a swindling scheme of collecting in advance on orders for women's silk goods in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana, was sentenced to the women's prison for a term of one to seven years.

The Gary Bribery Cases.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 18.—Special Judge Van Fleet of Elkhart has sent word he will arrive in this city next Saturday morning to set for trial the bribery cases against Mayor Knotts, Alderman Emerson Bowser, City Engineer Williston and John J. Nihoff of Gary.

Preferred Death to Illness.

Zionsville, Ind., Oct. 18.—M. A. Roby, aged forty-five, a farmer three miles northeast of here, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn. A widow and one daughter survive. He had been in poor health.

Body Almost Cut in Two.

Bloomfield, Ind., Oct. 18.—While working in the Eph Cassidy saw mill, William Arthur, aged twenty, fell across the rip saw and was instantly killed, his body being cut almost in two.

IDA VON CLAUSSEN

The "Most Beautiful Woman in the World" Has Been Declared Insane.

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Ida von Claussen has been committed to Bloomingdale asylum upon the report of the Bellevue doctors that she is of unsound mind. Mrs. von Claussen repeated to the physicians her tale of a plot in which Colonel Roosevelt and others are involved; said the king of Sweden wanted her to marry his son, and that the emperor of Germany would send a warship to protect her on request. She said she considered herself the most beautiful woman in the world.

MR. TAFT CROSSING THE DESERT TODAY

The Longest Jump of 30,000
Mile Journey.

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 18.—After passing through the picture-book land of southern California, Mr. Taft now is taking the longest jump of his 13,000-mile trip, from Los Angeles to Butte, Mont., a distance of 1,215 miles, or farther than from Maine to Florida. There are no scheduled stops for this trip, but many small towns along the way have telegraphed the president to stop with them a few minutes, and he has consented to do so. The last place which the president visited before leaving Los Angeles was Long Beach, where he walked about the hotel plaza and watched the bathers fight the surf of the Pacific and loiter about the warm sand of the beach in the sun.

The first stage on the long jump was through the orange and lemon land of the southern valley. Stops were made at four or five towns and the president spoke to the crowds from the platform of his car. The president was greeted by amazingly big crowds for the size of the towns. It being evident that they had come in from the ranches and surrounding country to see him, and everywhere there were big baskets of roses.

At San Bernardino the president left his train and went for a short drive about the town. This was the last stop before entering the desert on his long journey across Nevada.

SHOT HIS RIVAL

And Kentucky Man Is Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Robert White, eighteen years old, was convicted at Catlettsburg, Ky., of the murder of Charles Lowe and sentenced to life imprisonment. Lowe and White were rival suitors for a young girl, and while in an intoxicated condition White shot Lowe last January, the latter expiring in the arms of the young girl who was the cause of the tragedy. White is a member of a wealthy Kentucky family.

Fifteen-Year-Old Murderer.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 18.—William Parks, a negro, tried here for the murder two weeks ago of Shearer Riddle, white, son of Mail Carrier William Riddle, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Parks is only fifteen years of age and Riddle was eighteen.

Came in Contact With Live Wire.

Bedford, Ind., Oct. 18.—George Freightner, aged twenty, employed by the Southern Indiana Power company as a lineman, was killed by coming in contact with one of the heavily charged electric wires from the power plant at Williams dam.

THEY GOT ON TO MATTY'S CURVES

The Phillies Take Another Game
From New York.

BAKER AGAIN DOES STAR STUNT

Repeating His Performance of the Day Before, the Athletics' Crack Third Baseman Drove One of Mathewson's Slants Far Afield For a Home Run—In Spite of Cold and Threatening Weather Enormous Crowds Attend.

New York, Oct. 18.—The Philadelphia Athletics, for the first time on record, solved the pitching of Chris Mathewson and beat him at the Polo grounds yesterday afternoon, although it required eleven innings to accomplish the feat. The score was 3 to 2, the Giants making only three hits off Jack Coombs and scoring a run in the last inning. They hung up a tally in the third period and held this advantage until the ninth inning, when Frank Baker, who won Monday's game with a home run, drove one of Matty's slants far into the right wing of the grandstand for the circuit. This four-bagger tied the score and prompted the wildest kind of excitement.

The Giants partially crumbled under the heavy cannonading of the Athletics in the eleventh, when they pounded Matty for three hits which, with errors by Merkle and Herzog, netted two runs, just enough to win, for in the last half Herzog made up for several bungling plays by lining out a two-bagger, after which he reached the plate on a fumble by Collins.

Mathewson was found for nine hits, but he was batted much harder than the score indicates. He received magnificent support from Meyers, Doyle and Murray, who helped him out of numerous tight places. Coombs used terrific speed and pitched with wonderful confidence. Meyers and Mathewson hit him safely in the third inning, after which the Giants were helpless until Herzog cracked out his double in the final round.

The game was exciting and filled with sensational incidents. Numerous close decisions worked up the players and the crowd, yet the rulings all were eminently fair.

Dirty Player Hissed by Fans.

The only unpleasant feature was the spiking of Baker by Snodgrass in the tenth inning, the latter deliberately jumping into the crack third baseman in such a manner that his spikes tore Baker's trousers and inflicted a painful wound. For this exhibition of poor sportsmanship Snodgrass was roundly scored by thousands of fans in the grandstand and bleachers.

Having beaten Mathewson, the Athletics express confidence in their ability to win the series, for they will use Bender in Philadelphia, while the Giants probably will send Marquard to the mound in a desperate attempt to stem the tide.

In spite of the cold and threatening weather the attendance almost equalled that of Saturday. The turnstile count showed that 37,316 persons passed through the gates. The gross receipts amounted to $75,593. The players' share was $40,820.22. Each club owner received $13,606.74. The commission's 10 per cent was $7,559.30. For the three games the total attendance was 101,783 paid admissions. The gross receipts were $195,914.50; the players' share, $105,793.82; each club owner's share, $35,264.61; the national commission's share, $19,601.45.

Today's game will be the last of the series in which the players receive a share of the money. It is estimated that the winners of the series will divide $75,000.

MOTION PICTURES

To Be Introduced Into Republican Campaign in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 18.—For the first time in the political history of the south moving pictures have been adopted as the means of pushing a campaign.

Congressman John W. Longley, chairman of the Republican state campaign committee, has started out five moving picture outfits in eastern Kentucky, where they will be used every night until nineteen counties have been covered.

The most important issues of the campaign are to be presented in especially posed pictures.

This May Furnish a Clue.

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 18.—Local officers believe they have discovered the instrument by which the Dawson triple murder was committed in this city on Oct. 1. A gaspipe eighteen inches long and covered with hair and blood, was found at the rear of the Dawson house. The opinion is growing that the murder of the church janitor and his wife and baby was the work of a madman. No arrests have been made in the case.

Thousand Delegates Expected.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Governor Marshall has issued the official call for the first Indiana conservation congress, to be held here Oct. 28. There will be 1,000 delegates.

FRANK PELHAM DOES NOT APPEAR

Divorce is Granted to Former Glenwood Girl in Connersville by Default of Her Husband.

CHARGES ARE SENSATIONAL

Two suits for divorce were presented in court Monday evening, one brought by Willart T. Bernethy and the other by Frances E. Pelham, for divorce from Franklin Pelham, says the Connersville News. The defendant did not appear in either case.

Mrs. Pelham made directly sensational accusations. She declared that while they lived in Shelbyville she came on a visit to relatives in this city at one time, and that, upon her return home unexpectedly, she found the bed room strewn with empty beer bottles, the bed disarranged and many long blonde hairs in the comb which she, whose hair is dark, was wont to use.

Judge Gray took the cases under advisement, and granted the divorces Tuesday morning. Nothing but simple divorce was asked in either case.

ASK CITY TO STOP STREET VENDING

power to act. Councilman Kelly brought to the attention of the council the fact that the city needs a place to keep their tools. The street sweeper and sprinkler, alongside of other tools, have been kept unprotected from the weather and the city needs a large barn for their property. The matter was left with the street and alley committee with instructions that they try and find a suitable location. If one can be found, the city may decide to build a barn. It was first suggested that the vacant ground at the water and light plant be used, but at the suggestion of Mr. Mahin this was abandoned. Mr. Mahin said in his opinion that there was to big coal strike in April and the ground at the plant would have to be used for a large supply of coal. He said that everything pointed to the greatest strike in history and advised the council to lay in a supply after the first of the year.

The usual claims were allowed with the exception of several claims for rebate on water. These were referred to finance committee.

It is said that the question of extra police for the horse show was discussed in the committee meeting. It was deemed advisable to put on some extra men but Councilman Parsons could not see it that way and the regular force of two men will take care of the crowds.

M'ALLISTER GETS SHANK POTATOES

Mayor of Indianapolis Makes Good His Word and Then Some, Sending Two Bushels.

FINE ASSORTMENT OF "SPUDS"

Chief of Police McAllister received a shipment of potatoes today from Mayor Shank of Indianapolis. It will be remembered that Mayor Shank while here Sherman day promised Mr. McAllister a bushel of potatoes if the chief of police would let him out of jail. Mayor Shank made good his word and then some. Instead of one bushel, he sent two. The "spuds" are of a large variety and look to be fine potatoes. Mr. McAllister has them on exhibition at his home and says only one will be given to each person calling, so don't go down to his house expecting to get a winter's supply. Mayor Shank will be in the city tomorrow attending the horse show. He intends to exhibit a team of horses and says he will win the money.

GREENSBURGERS TO VISIT RUSHVILLE

Expected That Six Hundred Will Come up on Special Train Tomorrow Night.

HORSE SHOW IS THE OCCASION

Promoted and guaranteed by the Eagle Aerie of this city a special train will leave this city on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock bound for Rushville, says the Greensburg News. The excursion is a return compliment in lieu of the favor the Rushvillians paid to Greensburg when they turned out five hundred strong for our street carnival and jubilee.

The promoters and guarantors of the excursion figure on at least six hundred people providing that the weather is anything favorable. On Thursday evening Rushville has promised to hold all free attractions until the arrival of the Greensburg excursion. On the program there is a free show of saddle horses, an automobile parade and various other attractions, and the local visitors will find plenty of amusement. The train returning from Rushville will leave that city between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock.

The special will stop at Sandusky, Williamstown and Milroy, and Milroy people have advised the order here that they will guarantee at least one hundred people to board the special.

CONFERENCE BEGINS TODAY

County Institute Workers Begin Session at Lafayette.

The annual conference of farmers' institute workers which will be held at Purdue University for three days began today. The farmers' institute work in Indiana will, hereafter, be carried forward under the provisions of the Clore bill, enacted by the legislature of 1911. Under the terms of this bill the farmers institutes become a part of the work of the agricultural extension department of Purdue university. A feature of the conference will be the consideration of the Clore law in its relations to the farmers' institute work, and the adoption of plans for future work under the new law. It is expected that all farmers' institute speakers who are to do institute work under the new law, all county institute chairmen and all presidents of county women's auxiliaries will be in attendance.
